	CIS was created in December 1991. In the adopted Declaration the participants of the Commonwealth declared their interaction on the basis of sovereign equality. At present the CIS unites: Azerbaijan, Armenia, Belarus, Georgia, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Moldova, Russia, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan, Uzbekistan and Ukraine. In September 1993 the Heads of the CIS States signed an Agreement on the creation of Economic Union to form common economic space grounded on free movement of goods, services, labour force, capital; to elaborate coordinated monetary, tax, price, customs, external

	A compulsory license provides that the owner of a patent or copyright licenses the use of their rights against payment either set by law or determined through some form of arbitration. In essence, under a compulsory license, an individual or company seeking to use another's intellectual property can do so without seeking the rights holder's consent, and pays the rights holder a set fee for the license. Under UK patent law, a compulsory license is different from a statutory license. Under statutory license,

DIVC - Disseminated Intravascular Coagulation	Disseminated intravascular coagulation (DIC), also known as disseminated intravascular coagulopathy or less commonly as consumptive coagulopathy, is a pathological process characterized by the widespread activation of the clotting cascade that results in the formation of blood clots in the small blood vessels throughout the body. This leads to compromise of tissue blood flow and can ultimately lead to multiple organ damage. In addition, as the coagulation process consumes clotting factors and platelets, normal clotting is disrupted and severe bleeding can occur from various sites. DIC does not occur by itself but only as a complicating factor from another underlying condition, usually in those with a critical illness. The combination of widespread loss of tissue blood flow and simultaneous bleeding leads to an increased risk of death in addition to that posed by the underlying disease. DIC can be overt and

	"http://association.msf.org/assemblies-iga" Field Associative Debates are organised on a yearly basis in all countries where MSF has operations. They bring together MSF field staff and board members to share experiences and discuss topics that are relevant at the local level but also of interest for the movement as a whole. The outputs from these debates, especially the recommendations and motions that are adopted, are taken on by the associative and executive at General Assemblies and the International General Assembly. This facilitates the flow of opinions, ideas and expertise within the association and keeps it	الناقشات السنوية لجمعية أطباء بلا حدود حول الأنشطة الميدانية

	together for the purpose of assuring that an organization meets its objectives. Governance is the combination of processes established and executed by the Management Team (MT) that are reflected in the organization's structure and how it is managed and led toward achieving goals. Governance ensures that stakeholder needs, conditions and options are evaluated to determine balanced, agreed-on organization objectives to be achieved; setting direction through prioritization and decision making; and monitoring performance and compliance against agreed-on direction and objectives. This means that governance should: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Evaluate to determine balanced, agreed-on organization objectives to be achieved</li> <li>Direct through prioritization and decision making</li> <li>Monitor performance, compliance and progress against agreed direction and objectives.</li> </ul> Management, on the other hand, plans, builds, runs, and monitors activities to align with and support the governance objectives. If you're trying to get the organizational separation straight, think of it like this: Governance is a responsibility of the MT, while management is a responsibility of the executive management. Risk, is the probability or threat of damage, injury, liability, loss, or any other negative occurrence that is caused by external or internal vulnerabilities, and that may be avoided through preemptive action.
